

Hot Spot. The sun emphasizes the captivating school architecture, during the late morning hours of Dapitan City National Highschool.

Hotter, More Water. As the temperature rises, water delivery rushes in the high demands of mineral consumers in Dapitan City this morning.

You Can't Stand Under My Umbrella. A school girl irritatingly waits for her friends on the campus grounds, under the scorching heat of the afternoon sun.

Beat The Heat. The scorching weather did not let an old man stop him from going to work as a construction worker just to feed his children, spotted earlier this afternoon behind the school gate of Dapitan City National High School.

Sun Ain't Fun No More, But Class Still Is. Earlier this afternoon, students in Dapitan City National High School proceed to achieve their academic goals, despite suffering under the extreme heat of the sun.